2020 LEADERSHIP & LEARNING

Introduction

Greetings!

Welcome to the 2020 Leadership and Learning Webinar Series! We are delighted to present a suite of learning-webinars that will increase your knowledge and provide you with exciting professional development opportunities. As a participant, you will gain insight from some of the industry's brightest stars all at no charge. Most of these webinars are facilitated by the Council's CDA Professional Development (PD) Specialists™ who are leaders in the ECE field.

Since 1985 the Council for Professional Recognition has been a champion for early childhood educators seeking to demonstrate their competence through the Child Development Associate® (CDA) Credential™. Did you know that over 800,000 credentials have been issued to early educators around the world? That means the Council continues to provide highly qualified educators our youngest learners deserve.

The Council continues to remain committed to supporting the growth and advancement of all early childhood education professionals. We are happy to offer these state-of-the-art webinars focused on topics pertinent to early childhood education.

Again, this series of webinars are offered at no charge, and you are encouraged to register for as many as you like. We hope you will take advantage of all 31 webinars being offered. With the successful completion of each webinar, you may earn a certificate for one in-service hour. Please note: The in-service hours earned may not be used toward fulfilling the training requirement for CDA initial nor renewal candidates. The certificate(s) will be emailed to you at the email address provided during registration.

We look forward to engaging with you and learning together!

Cheers,

Chonda Walden, MS, CHES External Specialists Engagement Manager Council for Professional Recognition

Trauma Informed Care in the Early Childhood Setting: Why Is This Something to Consider?

ABSTRACT:

This session will highlight the meaning of a trauma informed early childhood setting, and its importance to the future of our nation. According to the Trauma Informed Project (2017) "Trauma Informed Care (TIC) is an organizational structure and treatment framework that involves understanding, recognizing, and responding to the effects of all types of trauma." Some major risk factors of trauma include: poverty, recurrent physical and/or emotional abuse, neglect, parental depression, and family violence. Come and discover how trauma is being addressed in our community.

Family Child Care and the CDA: A Powerful Combination for Children and Families

ABSTRACT:

This powerful presentation examines why family child care remains a critical part of the early care and education ecosystem within the United States. It will cover important topics, including: why family child care is a critical part of the early care and education ecosystem in the United States; the value and importance of the CDA® as a way to elevate the work of family child care educators; strategies for designing and implementing competency-based training and assessment responsive to the needs of family child care educators; and key developments in the field.

Why Does She Wear a Hijab? Why is Her Hair So Kinky? The Importance of Cultural Relativism and Social-Identity in Early Learning Programs

ABSTRACT:

In this webinar, early childhood professionals will have an in-depth understanding of cultural relativism and learn how to create culturally enriched ideas, methods and systems that promote a cohesive learning environment for all children. The theoretical framework of this training is based upon the Social Identity Theory (SIT) coined by Henri Tajfel. Participants will understand and identify negative concepts, such as biases and ethnocentrism causing abnormal effects on a child's social-emotional development. Moreover, teachers will learn four major ways to create identity-safe classrooms suggested by Dr. Cohn-Vargas, while helping to create meaningful learning experiences and effective learning environments.

Knowing Our People: Deep Knowledge, Professional Expertise, Compassionate Hearts

ABSTRACT:

Holding on to optimism is key to remaining energized in a world full of demands of children, daily educator tasks, and normal life. This webinar will recharge your passion and purpose for the work we do and reaffirm the value of professional expertise, while refreshing the benefits of positive relationships with children, families, and each other. Participants will reap the benefits of the wisdom Luis has discovered from decades of work in ECE.

Experience with Nature and Outdoor Play Enhances Social and Emotional Development in Children

ABSTRACT:

Humans and nature are inseparable. In today's sedentary society children are stressed, frustrated, depressed, angry, and developing social and emotional issues. It is a core responsibility for adults to provide facilitate opportunities for children to experience and learn from nature and outdoor play. To cultivate a healthy society, we should reconnect with nature and educate teachers, policy makers and parents about the importance of outdoor play and nature in a child's life.

ABSTRACT:

The purpose of Cheerleading for the Cheerleader is to bring awareness to the depth of the work of an educator and the need for an effective mentor. The cheerleading received will allow educators/teachers (cheerleaders) to remain energized and passionate about their work. This presentation will identify the qualities of an effective mentor, provide an overview of the purpose and benefits of a mentor and empower the participants to use what they learned to choose a mentor.

10 Principles of Child Care Leadership

ABSTRACT:

Whether you are a child care facility director, family child care provider, school aged program leader or plunging into leading for the first time, it is pertinent to acknowledge that your staff's ability to follow you is only the third most essential facet of your role. The second, is that your staff members also look at their peers of which they are surrounded. However, the most important is that they look at their leader's ability to create an effective program through what they say and what they do.

Taking the Bull Out of Bullying in Early Childhood Education

ABSTRACT:

The knowledge known about bullying in older children can help guide, give resources and prevention tips for younger children experiencing bullying. Bullying can be physically aggressive, verbal or social. In an occurring incident, a bully is the dominant child, the victim is the target and the bully-victim can fill both roles at different times. A child that is a bully today may be a bully-victim later in the year. Bullying occurs more with younger children, the type of bullying changes as children grow older. Challenging behaviors can be displayed during developmental skills, as skills are strengthened bullying and challenging behaviors decrease. Programs that build on children's social skills are very important in bullying prevention.

Educating the Whole Child: Mind, Body and Soul

ABSTRACT:

The purpose of this training is to make educators aware of the various aspects involved in educating a child. Your mind, body and soul must be healthy, for you to learn. These aspects are often overlooked due to the focus and demands on academic gains in educational settings. The focus is no longer on social-emotional skills, but on academics and attendance. Teachers complain about not being able to teach the fundamentals, and instead being forced to teach to prepare students for test taking. This presentation is intended to challenge early childhood providers to think about how they interact with their students daily and the services offered to children in their care.

Seeing Children: Caring with the Child in Mind

ABSTRACT:

How does care impact the child? Caring happens every day...from hundreds of nose wipes to thousands of diaper changes. Each making an impact on the child's well-being and the relationships in their world. So we ask ourselves, what does group care look like through the eyes of the child? In this workshop we will examine the dance that happens during care routines, as well as when connection is beneficial during play. We will discuss ways to support teachers during these routines and begin to see children differently.

STEMing One Block at a Time

ABSTRACT:

Playing with blocks is about more than shapes and stacking as many blocks as possible. Block play provides the opportunity for children to develop a greater understanding of science and math concepts. In addition, children are given the opportunity to improve their language skills as they talk about the structures they've built. The children's sense of creativity, imagination, and self-esteem are also given the chance to develop in ways that interest the children. This workshop will delve deeper into these concepts, as well as how to make them a reality in your classroom.

Finding Our Voices: Awakening the Inner Advocates & Activists in ECE Teachers

ABSTRACT:

A very important part of being an early childhood educator is being an advocate for our field. But we cannot stop at advocacy. In our current climate, we must also be prepared to be activists as well. The purpose of this webinar is to help awaken your inner advocate and activist, and by the end you should be able to analyze your own positionality (i.e. black or "woman of color", working class, female) within the matrix of society and the field of education; analyze and question the "Master's Tools" (i.e. resources that affect, guide, and evaluate teacher practice within ECE); adopt identities as educators, advocates, and activists.

Bonding with Books, the Key to Literacy

ABSTRACT:

This webinar will address the CDA functional areas of communication and cognition. Research indicates that preschoolers with extensive vocabularies tend to become proficient readers. Reading aloud to children promotes language acquisition, literacy development, achievement in reading comprehension and overall success in school. Enjoying books and early literacy provide a foundation for life – long learning. All children deserve opportunities to become successful readers. Nurturing relationships between adults and children are key components of literacy. This webinar will explain the value of introducing young children to multicultural literature that exposes them to different cultures and ethnic groups. We will examin the consequences of too much screen time, as well discuss appropriate books for each stage of development.

Emotional Intelligence

ABSTRACT:

Emotional intelligence describes the ability to understand one's own feelings. It also provides great insight on how emotion influences motivation and behavior. The concepts of Emotional intelligence have been around since the early 20th century, but the term was first introduced by Wayne Payne in 1985.

With this workshop the participants will gain a better understanding of self-management and self-awareness. This in turn will give them better insight and control over their actions and emotions. With a greater understanding of emotions, the participants will experience a positive impact on their professional and personal lives.

Inteligencia Emocional

SINOPSIS:

La inteligencia emocional describe la capacidad de comprender los propios sentimientos. También proporciona una gran comprensión de cómo la emoción influye en la motivación y el comportamiento. Los conceptos de inteligencia emocional han existido desde principios del siglo XX, pero el término fue introducido por primera vez por Wayne Payne en 1985.

Con este taller, los participantes obtendrán una mejor comprensión de la autogestión y la autoconciencia. Esto, a su vez, les dará una mejor visión y control sobre sus acciones y emociones. Con una mayor comprensión de las emociones, los participantes experimentarán un impacto positivo en sus vidas tanto profesionales como personales.

Yoga and Meditation for Young Children

ABSTRACT:

Yoga and meditation have been known to bring about peace and serenity for tens of thousands of years. Most children in our programs are old enough to practice these disciplines. The participants will learn how to present Yoga using storytelling techniques that will take the group of children through poses in an engaging way. Meditation is something that should be practiced daily. What better age to get into this habit! At this age hyperactivity and attention deficit disorders are on the rise and we know time-out does not work. So, sending the child in for meditation can be a great alternative.

Empower Students to Teach: Mentoring a Student Teacher in the Early Childhood

ABSTRACT:

Early childhood education in America is receiving much deserved attention, yet the number of educated professionals entering the field is deficient and those that enter often do not remain in early childhood. While this is often due to low wages, turnover can also be attributed to a lack of teacher support in developmentally appropriate practice. This seminar will review the developmental stages of a teacher, the principles of mentoring, and the challenges mentors face. Attendees will gain insight into how mentoring consistently maximizes human potential and professional confidence, allowing new teachers to find success in early childhood education.

How a Child's Brain is Built: Understanding Brain Development in Early Childhood

ABSTRACT:

We know children develop emotionally and intellectually through experiences. However, how that information is received and processed depends on how their brain has developed and where it is in its "construction." Based on the book, "The Whole Brain Child" by Daniel J Siegel, we will discuss how and when the brain develops and how a child's behavior can be explained on how their brain deals with information given to them. We will discuss tantrums vs. meltdowns, overstimulation and developmentally appropriate practices which allow a child's brain to keep "building." We will also show parents how their child's brain develops so they can also make realistic goals and expectations.

ABSTRACT:

Have you ever wondered how you can provide more effective feedback? In this presentation, you will learn some key skills for providing facilitative feedback using real-world examples. Facilitative feedback incorporates concepts related to empathy, active listening, and strengths-based approaches to promote the development of and progress towards, professional goals. Facilitative feedback can improve relationships, reduce the likelihood of feedback being taken negatively, and empower others to use feedback to drive positive change. ### ABSTRACT:

This presentation will focus on the ways Competency Standard I promotes practices that focus on a positive learning environment. For children to learn they must feel safe and secure to take risks. Classroom organization, routines and relationships are essential to help children feel safe in the classroom. This presentation will help focus on practical strategies teachers can use to organize their classroom, establish relationships, promote engagement, and support positive behaviors. Strategies we will discuss will include the use of visuals, utilizing a greeting as children enter, ways to incorporate positive interactions throughout the day and ideas on how to maintain a positive climate even in the face of challenging behaviors.
